The Free edition of SprinxCRM contains features necessary to conduct business on a daily basis. New features are available for further growth of the system. Read More This article is about powerful new feature of KnowledgeBase Journal Creator which is "Export to PDF". KnowledgeBase Journal Creator (KBJ Co) is a powerful application which is used by companies which are dealing with the management of their information. It is used by the company to create complex knowledge bases (FKBs). To create FKBs you will use large and complex database. The information is imported from databases and as a rule company wants to have such information kept as organized as possible. That's why you will use KBJ to store it. When any "journal" is created the information is written in KDDD (Knowledge Database Documentation Data) format. The FKB created by KBJ Co can be read from any modern PC or Mac on a network and can be read with Microsoft Word or HTML viewer. However, what we have today we are trying to export these journals to a PDF and create a free e-book format. The PDF exported from KBJ Co is about 170 Mb which is a very big size. Due to this fact this article will be divided into 5 parts. First part will be about understanding of KDDD databases and KBJ Co. The second part we will see what KBJ Co for exporting KDDD information to PDF. The third part we will see how to convert KDDD-format to what you want to do to make this information useful for you or others. The fourth part we will see what you can do to show the information to the widest number of readers. The fifth part will deal with creating PDF books and other e-book formats to deliver to readers. Our goal is not to provide as many functions as possible so that a person who has not used KBJ Co at all will be able to use it. Unfortunately in current KDDD format you can store information in an indexed manner, but what we want to provide is that you would be able to use this information easily while reading it. Understanding the KBJ Co To take a look at KBJ Co database you will need to buy KBJ Co. Once you have the KBJ Co with you you can start to take a look how it works and will start working with it. The first thing you can do with KBJ Co is to create a journal. b7e8fd5c8
